Celebrating the Publication of
Fernando Henrique Cardoso's

Charting a New Course: The Politics of Globalization and Social Transformation

(Rowman and Littlefield, 2001)

A book with 26 selections by Brazil's President and world-class social scientist Fernando Henrique Cardoso (Edited and Introduced by Mauricio Font). Charting a New Course contains essays written by FHC at different stages of his impressive and influential intellectual trajectory, an extensive Introduction by M. Font, and Cardoso's bibliography by Danielle Ardaillon. For decades F. H. Cardoso has been among the most influential of Latin American scholars, his writings on globalization, dependency, and politics have reached a world-wide audience.

This book, the third by Cardoso to come out in English, is the first to incorporate essays written during his tenure as president of Brazil. The transformation of Cardoso's economic and political approach is nowhere better documented than in this broad-ranging collection of writings that span Cardoso's early theoretical work through his pragmatic agenda for Brazil in a rapidly changing world economy. The book also traces the development of one of the world's leading intellectuals, who took theory into the arena of policy when he became head of state.
