Colloquium

U.S. - Latin America Relations Today

Peter Hakim is president of the Inter-American Dialogue, the leading U.S. center for policy analysis and exchange on Western Hemisphere affairs. Mr. Hakim writes and speaks widely on hemispheric issues, is regularly interviewed on radio and television, and has testified more than a dozen times before Congress.

Amb. Adolfo Aguilar Zinser is Mexico’s Permanent Ambassador to the United Nations. Prior to his selection as Mexico’s ambassador to the United Nations, H.E. Adolfo Aguilar Zinser was National Security Advisor and Commissioner of Law and Order in the administration of President Vicente Fox.

Amb. Juan Gabriel Valdés is Chile’s Permanent Ambassador to the United Nations and Former Foreign Minister. Ambassador Valdés has held diverse positions in Chile, including Head of the Vice Ministry for International Economic Affairs; Director of the International Division of the Ministry of Finance; Coordinator of the NAFTA Negotiating Team; and Lead Negotiator of the trade agreement between Chile and Canada.

The distinguished panel will discuss trends and issues in the Western Hemisphere, relying on "The Troubled Americas" Inter-American Dialogue’s 2003 Policy Report as a starting point for the debate.
