ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Carlos Alzugaray (Ph.D., University of Havana) is a Professor at the University of Havana and Cuban diplomat.

María del Carmen Antón Guardiola (Ph.D.) is a Professor of Public International Law, Foreign Affairs and Law of European Union at the University of Alicante. She has published a number of works on Public International Law and European Community Law; for example, the monograph titled Gibraltar: un desafío para la Unión Europea (Tirant lo Blanch, 2010).

Maria P. Aristigueta (Ph.D., Univ. of Southern California) is a Professor of Public Administration and a Senior Policy Fellow at the University of Delaware's Institute for Public Administration. She is the author of, among other works, Civil Society in Cuba (Univ. of Miami, 2008).

Miguel Barnet is a Cuban writer, novelist, poet, and ethnographer, whose works have encompassed several sociological and anthropological themes. He is the author of Biography of a Runaway Slave (1966).

Hilary Becker (Ph.D., Univ. of Havana) is Assistant Professor of Accounting at Carleton University. He has worked as an analyst with DuPont Inc., and has consulted for various organizations including the World Wildlife Fund, the MacArthur Foundation, and the Cuban government.

Larry Catá Backer (J.D., Columbia Univ.) is a Professor of Law and International Affairs at Pennsylvania State University. He edited the collection of essays, Harmonizing Law in an Era of Globalization: Convergence, Divergence, and Resistance (Carolina Academic Press, 2007).
Armando Chaguaceda Noriega (M.A., Univ. of Havana) is a political scientist, historian and social advocate. He is currently working on his Ph.D. in History and Regional Studies at the Institute of Social and Historical Research (Univ. Veracruzana).

José Chofre (Ph.D.) is a Professor of Constitutional Law and European Community Law at the University of Alicante, and a consultant of the European Commission in Cuba. He is also the coordinator of the Program of Legal Cooperation with Cuba, developed by the University of Alicante. He has published numerous books and articles.

Margaret E. Crahan (Ph.D., Columbia Univ.) is a Senior Research Scholar at the Institute for Latin American Studies at the School of International and Public Affairs, Columbia University. She has published over one hundred articles and books including Religion, Culture and Society: The Case of Cuba (Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, 2003), among other.

Mauricio A. Font (Ph.D., Univ. of Michigan) is Director of the Bildner Center for Western Hemisphere Studies and Professor of Sociology at The Graduate Center and Queens College, City University of New York. His work on Cuba includes several essays and co-edited volumes; including, The Cuban Republic and José Martí (1902-2002) (Lexington Books, 2005).

Mario A. González-Corzo (Ph.D., Rutgers Univ.) is Associate Professor at the Department of Economics and Business at Lehman College of The City University of New York (CUNY), and a Research Associate at the Institute of Cuban and Cuban-American Studies (ICCAS) at the University of Miami (FL).

Yvon Grenier (Ph.D., Université Laval) is a Professor of Political Science at St. Francis Xavier University in Nova Scotia, Canada. He is the author of, among other books, Art and Politics: Octavio Paz and the Pursuit of Freedom (Rowman and Littlefield, 2001).
Zoya Kocur (Ph.D., Middlesex University) is an independent scholar. She is co-editor of the volume Contemporary Art and Multicultural Education (Routledge, 1996). Her latest volume is called Global Visual Cultures: An Anthology (Wiley-Blackwell, 2011).

Emily Morris (M.A., Middlesex Univ.) is Research Director, Centre for Caribbean and Latin American Research and Consultancy (CLARC) at London Metropolitan University. Previously, she was Senior Analyst, Latin America, at the Economist Intelligence Unit.

Armando Nova González (Ph.D., Univ. of Havana) is a Professor and Researcher at the Center for the Study of the Cuban Economy. He is author of a number of books and articles on Cuban economy and Cuban agriculture.

John R. Paron (Ph.D., Univ. Southern California) is a retired US Navy Captain (O-6) fighter pilot and a Senior Research Scientist for Dynamics Research Corporation. He participated in the Cuban Missile Blockade and made routine visits to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. He is the author of numerous publications related to public policy and national security.

Omar Everleny Pérez Villanueva (Ph.D., Univ. of Havana) is a professor at the Univ. of Havana and Director of its Center for the Study of the Cuban Economy. He has published several articles and books, including, Cincuenta años de la economía cubana (Editorial de Ciencias Sociales, 2010).

Camila Piñeiro Harnecker is a researcher and professor at the Center for the Study of the Cuban Economy (Univ. of Havana). She is editor and author of the compilation Cooperativas y Socialismo: Una Mirada desde Cuba (Caminos, 2011). She is currently finishing her PhD. on the regulatory framework of Cuban state enterprises.

Dr. Robert A. Portada III (Ph.D., Univ. of Notre Dame) is Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at Kutztown University. His current research is focused on constitutional reform in Latin America and the role of private security companies in foreign affairs.
Carlos Riobó (Ph.D., Yale University) is Chairman and Associate Professor of Latin American Literature and Cultures at The City College of New York. He is also a Cuba Project Fellow at the Bildner Center for Western Hemisphere Studies (CUNY). He is the author of Sub-versions of the Archive. Manuel Puig's and Severo Sarduy's Alternative Identities (Bucknell Univ. Press, 2011) and Cuban Intersections of Literary and Urban Spaces (SUNY Press, 2011).

Archibald Ritter (Ph.D., Univ. of Texas at Austin) is a Professor in the Department of Economics and the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs at Carleton University (Ottawa). He has published a variety of works on Cuba including The Cuban Economy (editor, Univ. of Pittsburgh Press, 2004).

Jorge Luis Romeu (Ph.D., Syracuse University) is a Research Professor at Syracuse University, and a SUNY Faculty Emeritus. Romeu directs the Juarez-Lincoln-Martí International Education Project, and has published extensively on Cuban issues, including a demographic study of Cuban Freemasons in the XX Century.

Amparo Sánchez Cobos (Ph.D., Univ. Jaume I) is a Researcher at the University of Jaume I. She is the author of Sembrando ideales. Anarquistas españoles en Cuba (1902-1925) (CSIC, 2008) and of essays in, among other collective works, Trabajo libre y coactivo en sociedades de plantación (Siglo XXI, 2009).

Pavel Vidal-Alejandro (Ph.D.) is a professor of the Center for the Study of the Cuban Economy (Univ. of Havana). He worked as an analyst in the Monetary Policy Division and the Econometric Models Group of the Central Bank of Cuba for seven years.