The Basic and Applied Social Psychology (BASP) Program at the CUNY Graduate Center trains students in the theories, principles, and methods relevant to the conduct of social psychological research. The primary goal of the training program is to produce creative, rigorous, and sophisticated researchers who are well-versed in the traditional canon of social psychology, and can apply their knowledge and skills to develop innovative questions and pursuits.

BASP at the Graduate Center offers...

- Training in basic and applied social psychology laboratories
- Access to world-renowned, productive faculty
- Curriculum centered on concrete skills such as grant writing and publishing
- Competitive funding packages

...in an internationally recognized center of advanced study in the heart of New York City.

Faculty research interests include:
- Social Cognition
- Intergroup Relations
- Stereotyping and Prejudice
- Close Relationships
- Persuasion and Attitude Change
- Social Identity
- Emotion
- Judgment and Decision-Making
- Health Psychology
- Psychology and Law

Application Deadline: December 1st 2015

Program details and application information at www.cunybas.p.org