The Graduate Center is the principal doctorate-granting institution of the City University of New York, offering more than thirty doctoral degrees from Anthropology to Urban Education. In addition to rigorous academic training in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences, the Graduate Center fosters globally significant faculty research in a wide variety of centers and institutes.

Through its extensive public programs—lectures, conferences, performances, exhibitions, and conversations—the Graduate Center contributes to the intellectual and cultural life of New York City and affirms its commitment to the premise that knowledge is a public good.
