We’ve highlighted some of the GC’s most active accounts on Twitter. Whether you’re interested in the humanities, sciences, or social sciences, or looking to expand your community, you’ll find someone new to follow and interact with here.

- @CUNYGradCenter
The Graduate Center’s Twitter feed for the GC community.

- @GradCenterNews
Ideas, news, and research from the Twitter feed of the Graduate Center of the City University of New York.

- @Profdavidharvey
David Harvey, distinguished professor of anthropology and geography, is the director of the Center for Place, Culture & Politics at the Graduate Center. Harvey specializes in Marxism.

- @manovich
Lev Manovich, a world-renowned innovator in digital humanities and digital culture and media, is a professor of computer science at the Graduate Center.

- @jessieNYC
Jessie Daniels, an internationally recognized expert on the Internet manifestations of racism, is a professor of psychology and public health at the Graduate Center.

- @mkgold
Associate professor of English and digital humanities at the Graduate Center, Matt Gold specializes in scholarly communication, digital rhetoric, and nineteenth-century American literature.
@SR_spatial
Steven Romalewski, director of the Graduate Center’s CUNY Mapping Service, focuses on using geographic information systems to help large and small nonprofits, public agencies, businesses, and others to understand spatial dimensions of data.

@pauljuliansmith
Paul Julian Smith, a distinguished professor in the Graduate Center’s Hispanic and Luso-Brazilian Literatures and Languages program, studies modern Spain and Mexico, especially media studies: film and television.

@pthistlethwaite
Polly Thistlethwaite serves as chief librarian at the Graduate Center. Thistlethwaite has embarked on numerous initiatives, most notably extending partnerships with external libraries through the Manhattan Research Library Initiative, which has made it possible for the GC to share resources with the New York Public Library, New York University, and Columbia University.

@aaciman
André Aciman is an American memoirist, essayist, novelist, and scholar of seventeenth-century literature. He serves as a distinguished professor of comparative literature at the Graduate Center. He has also written many essays and reviews on Marcel Proust.

@cunycommons
The Academic Commons is a social network that is designed to support faculty initiatives and build community through the use of technology in teaching and learning.

@CUNYWomeninSTEM
CUNY Women in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) is a transdisciplinary group open to the CUNY community. CUNY Women in STEM is a chartered organization at the Graduate Center.

@cunydsc
The Doctoral Students’ Council represents students in the doctoral and master’s programs at the Graduate Center.

@justpublics365
The goal of the JustPublics@365 project is to connect academics, journalists, and activists in ways that foster transformation on issues of social justice.

@TheGCGerry
Gerry Martini serves as the Graduate Center’s admissions coordinator.
• @Eero_Laine
  Eero Laine, an active Twitter user, is a Ph.D. candidate in the Graduate Center’s theatre program. His research interests include critical theory, theatre studies, and popular culture.

• @cunyGCLibrary
  News and views from the Graduate Center Library.