Globalization and the (new) political economy of health

Ronald Labonté PhD, FCAHS, HonFFPH
Research Chair in Globalization and Health Equity and Professor in the Faculty of Medicine, University of Ottawa

Ronald Labonté’s early work focussed on health promotion, community development, community empowerment and social determinants of health. For the past 25 years he has led research and scholarship on the health equity impacts of contemporary globalization. From 2005 until 2008 he chaired the Globalization Knowledge Network for the World Health Organization’s Commission on the Social Determinants of Health. He recently completed a health impact assessment of the Trans Pacific Partnership Agreement. Present research interests include health equity impacts of comprehensive primary health care reforms; health worker migration; medical tourism; global health diplomacy; globalization, trade and tobacco control; trade and food security; and health and foreign policy.
