

BNC: copyright and restrictions

1 Copyright

The BNC contains a very large amount of copyright material, which has been generously made available to the project on the understanding that the rights of the copyright holders will not be abused. The conditions under which it is made available are summarized in the BNC Licence Agreement (also available in pdf-format. You must read and agree to the terms of this Licence before you can use the corpus.

If you have any questions about the licence or questions regarding the use of the BNC, please contact us on natcorp@oucs.ox.ac.uk

2 Referring to the BNC

If you use material from the BNC and want to quote it, you may want to use the following information:

Data from the BNC Our policy is to request that citations from the British National Corpus should include the text identifier (a 3 letter code) and sentence number. A suitable form of words for crediting the BNC would be:

- "Examples of usage taken from the British National Corpus (BNC) were obtained under the terms of the BNC End User Licence. Copyright in the individual texts cited resides with the original IPR holders. For information and licencing conditions relating to the BNC, please see the web site at <http://www.natcorp.ox.ac.uk> "
- or: "Data cited herein have been extracted from the British National Corpus, distributed by Oxford University Computing Services on behalf of the BNC Consortium. All rights in the texts cited are reserved."

Data from the BNC Online service You may use the following phrase to refer to material consulted using the BNC Online service: "Data cited herein have been extracted from the British National Corpus Online service, managed by Oxford University Computing Services on behalf of the BNC Consortium. All rights in the texts cited are reserved."
