

Emerging Leaders International Fellows Program

Senior International Fellows Program

Global Connections

The Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society at the Graduate Center, City University of New York, has offered the International Fellows Programs since 1989. These graduate-level professional development courses attract applicants from around the globe, working in the field of philanthropy and community grantmaking in particular. The program—which consists of research, seminars, site visits, meetings and forums that offer networking opportunities—is a multi-directional learning opportunity. Not only do the Fellows learn from practitioners and experts who engage with them during the program, but more importantly the Fellows learn from each other about the challenges confronted, strategies devised, and solutions conceived in the field of philanthropy in their respective countries.

From where have the 240 Fellows hailed over the last 32 years? A total of 71 countries (and territories) as follows:
