

Office of the Provost
212.817.7200 | provost@gc.cuny.edu | 365 Fifth Avenue | New York, NY 10016

September 19, 2022

Amie James Science Travel Awards

Due to a generous gift by former Graduate Center Foundation Board member Amie James deserving Science PhD students at The Graduate Center can apply for financial support to assist them in traveling to scientific meetings to present their work.

Purpose: To facilitate travel by science PhD students (see eligible programs below) to present at major national and international conferences.

Eligible Programs/Tracks: Biochemistry, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Earth and Environmental Sciences – Physical Science track, Mathematics, Physics, Psychology – Behavioral and Cognitive Neuroscience, Psychology – Comparative and Cognitive, Psychology - Developmental Training Area (students working on cognitive related projects), Speech-Language-Hearing Sciences

Amount: $1,000 (per award)

Deadline: December 1, 2022. For travel between January 1, 2023 and August 31, 2023
ALL applications are due on noon eastern time on the deadline date.

Eligibility: PhD student in good standing currently enrolled in a Graduate Center Science PhD program.

Application:

To be emailed as ONE PDF file labeled as LastName_FirstName.PDF

1. Current CV
2. Confirmation of good standing (provided by EO or APO)
3. Letter of support from PhD mentor indicating the student's level of contribution to the work that will be presented and the standing of the meeting.
4. Copy of the submitted abstract
5. Confirmation of acceptance

Email applications to fellowshipapps@gc.cuny.edu by the deadline.

It is required that all recipients will participate in a data blitz (1 PowerPoint slide, 3 minute talks) describing their work to a public audience at a date to be determined.

Joshua C. Brumberg, Ph.D.
Dean of the Sciences
The Graduate Center, CUNY
212-817-7215
Room 8111.03
www.gc.cuny.edu/Sciences