Post-election Optics in Guatemala: Judicial Cooptation, Gender Violence and Migration

Join the Washington Office on Latin America (WOLA) on September 14th for a conversation with Dr. Victoria Sanford, who will discuss her new book "Textures of Terror" that investigates the unsolved murder of a female law student and the pervasive violence against women in Guatemala that drives migration. This expert panel will offer an up-close appraisal of the inner workings of the Guatemalan criminal justice system and will discuss concrete steps for the international community to support democracy and rule of law in the post-election transitional period.

Featuring:

JUDGE ÉRIKA AIFÁN
Anti-Corruption Judge in exile and Women of Courage Award Recipient

DR. VICTORIA SANFORD
Professor Lehman College, CUNY and Author of Textures of Terror: The Murder of Claudia Isabel Velásquez and Her Father's Quest for Justice

Opening Remarks by:

JO-MARIE BURT
Professor, George Mason University and Senior Fellow, WOLA

Moderated by:

 HOLLY DRAGINIS
Legal Advisor for Latin America and the Caribbean, American Bar Association Justice Defenders Program
